Map of North Carolina.

THIS desirable Work, which has been unavoidably delayed, is now progressing, and will probably be completed in the course of the ensuing winter. Those gentlemen who have been kind enough to undertake the correction of the Maps of their respective counties, and who have not yet found it convenient to do so, are respectfully solicited to give the matter a moment of their attention as soon as may be convenient.

From the specimens of correctness which those Maps that have been received in most instances afford, the public may be assured that a more correct Map of the State will be obtained by the means pursued than by any other that could have been adopted. In many instances entire Maps of the different counties have been made out with great labour, and no doubt with as much accuracy.

To those gentlemen from whom the corrected Maps have been received, the subscriber begs leave to return his grateful acknowledgments.

Candidates for Matrimonial Honors.—The increase in the matrimonial advertisements puts us in mind of a hoax of this sort which was successfully played off a short time since. It was agreed in a gay party of ladies and gentlemen that an advertisement should be inserted in a London Morning Paper, as from a lady who felt inclined to taste the joys of matrimony, more speedily than to all appearance the ordinary way would enable her to do, giving the longing maiden a fair portion of beauty and riches. Letters were received in reply from between fifty and sixty swains of all descriptions, to each of whom an answer was addressed, stating that so far the writer was not objected to, but that the lady would like previously to his being introduced to her, "unseen to see him;" at the same time requesting each to be in the pit of Drury-lane Theatre on a certain evening, dressed in a particular way, and immediately on the conclusion of the first piece, to stand upon the benches and apply a quizzing glass to the right eye.

All succeeded so well, that as soon as the curtain fell, adove 50, of all ages, mounted the benches—from the smooth-chinned Adonis of fifteen, to the sleek, portly, self-confident widower of fifty, and the shrivelled, worn out, and emaciated bachelor of sixty, all adorned according to order in the gayest style, and with the utmost nicety, to make the deeper impression on the heart of the fair prize. High swelled their bosoms with hope, as with studied action the sparkling glass was raised to the eye; but who shall paint the astonishment, dismay, and rage, alternately depicted on their countenances, on discovering the sudden failure of all their hopes? With such velocity did they all descend from their unenviable attitude, to "hide their diminished heads," among the crowd, that the decrepit lover of sixty, might have fancied his knees once more possessed of the pliancy of twenty. If this should meet the eye of some of the actors in this humorous piece, they will readily believe that no Farce produced at Old Drury, ever went off so much to the satisfaction of the authors; though the actors thought the conclusion rather too tragic to allow a repetition.—Hart's Mercury.

FOREIGN.

LATE FROM EUROPE.

The brig Jones arrived at Boston on the 4th inst. in 37 days from London. We are indebted to Mr. Topliff, the editors of the Boston Courier and Patriot, and to the New York Gazette, for extracts from papers to the 25th of August.

The Greeks.—As usual the intelligence from this unhappy people is vague and unsatisfactory. The following, received at Corfu, dated Otranto, July 21, confirms the account of the captivity of Ibrahim Pacha—"The Greeks have gained a complete victory over Ibrahim at Tripolitza, and have succeeded in taking him prisoner. This communication is true and certain, and you may depend on it. I have therefore sent it to you by express to avoid the delays of the post."

Spain.—A long and interesting article has appeared in a French paper, the Courier de Pays Bas, repeating a rumor which had been circulated and commented upon for some weeks, that preparations are on foot for forcing Ferdinand to abdicate a throne which he disgraces. A Belgic paper furnishes an article dated Madrid, July 21, which says—"We at length approach the denouement of a political drama, the most monstrous that stupidity and ignorance ever performed on the theatre of the world. We are at the crisis of that ministerial conspiracy, the exposure of which must reveal to us the secrets of many others. Justice and common sense, national rights and the manes of Riego, are about to be avenged, and a ministry which have forfeited their honors, betrayed their country, and sold the South of Europe, will soon experience the chastisement which Heaven always reserves for the wicked." The article then goes on to detail the intrigues of the French with the Spanish Ministry; and asserts, that by their conduct in Spain, the French Ministers have entirely compromised Ferdinand's crown—that they have ruined themselves by their own handy works, and legitimacy is destroyed by its most zealous defenders. The writer, after an elaborate review of the recent political transactions, and speculations upon the present prospects of the Kingdom, says—"We are then warranted in concluding that a great political event is preparing beyond the Pyrennees; that it will be an event calculated to revenge the violated rights of suffering humanity, and in particular those of the Spanish people, which have been most greivously insulted, and that Spain will become a political cancer to the French Government."

Private letters from Seville of July 30, state that Spain was threatened with a famine, in consequence of the extreme heat of the weather—the crops were rapidly perishing. According to the same letters, the reign of anarchy was fast approaching—the banditti, or rather the constitutional forces, overran most of the provinces, retiring into fastnesses on the approach of any force to subdue them, and levying contributions with impunity when their enemies retired from the vain pursuit of them. If these accounts can be trusted, it would appear almost impossible that the present year could terminate without some important convulsion in that ill fated monarchy.

New York, October 10.

The ship George Clinton, Captain Rawson, which left Liverpool Aug. 28, arrived in the lower harbor on Friday evening, but her letter bag did not reach town till Saturday afternoon, owing to a thick fog.

The Liverpool market was in much the same state as before. No new failures had taken place.

The British Parliament assembled on the 25th and was further prorogued to the 1st of Nov.

A new Lithographic invention is announced at Brussels, by which the French papers are to be copied and reprinted within two hours after the arrival of the mail.

It is reported that the Archduchess Maria Louisa, widow of Bonaparte, has been married to the Count Niepperg, who is to be raised to the dignity of a Prince.

Liverpool, August 27.

The Cotton Market opened heavily this week, and continued in but a languid state until Thursday, when the demand revived considerably, which was aided by some export orders, for the better qualities of Uplands, Mobile, and New Orleans, and purchases have been made in those descriptions to the extent probably of 2000 to 2500 bags. The total sales of the week amount to 11,606 bags, including 3058 Uplands, at 7¾ to 10 7-8; 2144 Orleans, 9 to 12d; 1783 Tennessees, &c., 7¼ to 10½, and 120 Sea Islands. Tobacco just now is limited, the sales making are of moderate extent at former rates. The business in Carolina Rice has been confined to 200 tierces at 18, 21 to 24s.

The United States' ship CYANE, John Orde Creighton, Esq. Commander, arrived at New-York on the 7th inst. The New York Gazette says: We are indebted to Captain Creighton for the following particulars of her passage home:—The Cyane sailed from Gibraltar on the 13th of July last, called at the Island of Teneriffe, where she was detained a fortnight on public service, and sailed again on the 3d of August; made St. Antonio, one of the Cape de Verds on the 14th, then proceeded to the Coast of Africa, and arrived at Cape Messurado on one day. The Colony was found in a most prosperous and healthy condition, and the intercourse with the natives was on the most friendly footing.

The crew of the Cyane continued perfectly healthy on the Coast of Africa, but suffered great inconvenience from the intense heat and heavy rains.

From Cape Messurado the Cyane run the Trades down to the West-Indies, and thence to this port. The officers and crew are in perfect health, not having a man sick, except two invalids from the Mediterranean squadron.

Washington, October 10.

It will be no news to our City readers, but the information may serve for a comparison of notes by those who reside in other parts of the country, that yesterday was the darkest Indian Summer day we have seen for several years. As was anticipated, from the density of the fog (or smoke) on the preceding evening, the regularity of the Mails, so far as they depend on steam-boat transportation, was deranged by it: the Eastern Mail beyond Baltimore wholly failed—the Southern Mail came to hand, but four hours after its time. From the appearance of the atmosphere last evening, we need hardly look for the regular arrival of the Mails this day. The most skilful pilots cannot guide the steam-boats in difficult navigation, through a darkness almost literally impenetrable.

Darien Bank Notes.—A depreciation is said to have taken place in the value of Darien notes, to the extent of 15 or 20 per cent. It is mentioned in the St Augustine paper, that the notes of that bank in circulation amount to $1,200,000; and the notes discounted to 1,300,000 dollars, and hence arises the present depreciation. No doubt seems to be entertained of the solvency of the bank, as assistance has been tendered to it by other institutions in Savannah: but it is hinted that the bank itself acquiesces in this depreciation, in order to avail itself of the alarm to redeem its paper at an easy rate.

The London Literary Gazette thus announces to its English readers the late celebration of the battle of Bunker Hill:

"Antiquities.—Sundry old gentlemen who fought a battle just half a century ago, among whom was General Lafayette, have been amusing themselves by laying the foundation of a Monument on Bunker's Hill to preserve the memory of their exploits, lest they should forget them."

It would seem that there is no necessity of erecting a monument in England, to preserve the memory of the battle of Bunker Hill. It is an incident in English history never to be forgotten.—Baltimore Patriot.

OATHS OF WITNESSES.

From the North American Review.

The general principle is that a witness, in giving his testimony, shall appeal for the truth of his declaration to a God who is the avenger of falsehood. But what God? the God of the Christians, said the ancient common law; and therefore neither Jews, nor Pagans, nor unbelievers, could be permitted to testify. The form of taking an oath, which was settled in the Popish times, was plainly founded upon this opinion.—The person about to testify laid his hand upon the books of the holy Evangelists,* who, as well as the Supreme Being, were invoked as witnesses, and after repeating the oath, he devoutly kissed the book in token of his belief and reverence. It was soon found however that the testimony of Jews was often necessary for the due administration of justice; and it was held that a Jew might be examined as a witness, after swearing upon the books of the Old Testament, and appealing to the God of Moses. The law stood thus, without any material inconvenience or change, till the year 1657, when in the case of Dr. Owen, Vice Chancellor of Oxford, it was held that kissing the book, about which he had religious scruples, was no essential part of an oath. As the commercial intercourse of England with other nations increased, the narrowness of the rule began to be felt; and in the great case of Omichund vs. Barker, in 1744, it was held by Lord Chancellor Hardwicke, assisted by three chiefs, that the depositions of a Gentoo, residing in the East Indies, relating to a contract made there and sworn to according to the forms of his religion, could be received in evidence in the court of chancery. One step further was taken in 1804. On the trial of certain persons indicted for felony, before Graham B. at the Old Bailey Sessions, a native of China, after dashing in pieces a saucer, which he took in his hand for that purpose, and declaring his belief, that his God would so dash him in pieces, if he uttered a falsehood, was received and examined as a witness. And in exact accordance with this, the deposition of a French witness was received in the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, who made his declarations a la maine droite levee; it being proved that in France the lifting up of the right hand is held to imply an oath. In these several cases the general principle was preserved, but its application was regulated by the circumstances of Society, and the state of public opinion. A code, or a statute prescribing the form of oaths in judicial proceedings, would have been inflexible.

*The several oaths, prescribed by acts of parliament to be taken in the English Custom House, conclude with the adjuration,—'as God you help, and his Saints.'

Beautiful Admonition.—The Hindoos, in baptising their infants, address to them this beautiful admonition: "Little babe, thou enteredst the world weeping while all around smiled: continue so to live that you may depart in smiles whilst all around you weep."

to be better understood than formerly in England. Many of our popular works are now reprinted in that country. Mr. John Miller, publisher and bookseller in New Bridge street, London, has recently brought out English editions of the 'Pilot,' 'Redwood,' 'Lionel Lincoln,' 'Poinsett's Mexico,' 'John Bull in America,' 'Percival's Poems,' and that interesting little tale the 'Travellers,' by the author of Redwood. These, we understand, have all met with such success as to be satisfactory to the publisher. Mr. Miller deserves the commendation of our countrymen for the strong interest he has taken in making our literature known to the British public. He has established a library which he calls the 'American Library,' and in which he endeavors to collect all the valuable American publications of the day, and such books of anterior date as he can obtain. It will be doing a service to the literature of the country, if authors and publishers will keep this institution in mind, and send new works to Mr. Miller, to be deposited in his library, and open to the inspection of reading persons in London. The merits of many performances will thus become known there, which may be thought adapted to publication in that country, but which might otherwise never come to the knowledge of a London paper.—Nat. Gaz.

One hundred & thirty-six original works have issued from the American press during the last quarter, including rather more than the usual share of pamphlets, as this period embraces the Fourth of July. Fifty volumes have been reprinted and published during the same time. The whole number of new publications for the quarter, therefore, is one hundred and eighty-six. We have spared no pains to make our list as complete as it was practicable to make it; but the difficulty of collecting intelligence of this kind renders it probable that some volumes have escaped our notice.

U. S. Lit. Gaz.

A Belfast (Ireland) paper mentions a recent decision of an important suit, in which, property to the probable amount of £140,000 sterling was involved. A Mr. O'Hara, a protestant gentleman, had been married to a French lady by a Catholic clergyman. In consequence of this forbidden rite, it has been determined that neither the widow of Mr. O'Hara, nor her issue by him, have any legal claim to the O'Hara estate: and the sons of Mr. O'Hara have been deprived of their father's property, by a due course of law, because a Catholic priest solemnized the marriage of their parents.

Freemasons.—In 1781, a grand lodge was established in the city of New-York, under a charter from the grand lodge of England. A few years afterwards an independent grand lodge was instituted, and there are now in the state of N. York near five hundred lodges, and more than 4,000 chapters.

A somewhat singular freak of dame fortune is mentioned in the Commercial Advertiser. A poor man who had fallen into "durance vile," besought the officer in whose hands he was, to take three tickets in the last Literature Lottery (which was all he had in the world to offer him, though not equal to the demand,) and to let him go. The officer took the tickets, handed them over to the creditor, and the prisoner was released from his confinement. In a few days after, one of these tickets came out a prize of twenty-five thousand dollars. This identical ticket had been offered to the officer by the creditor, as a gratuity for his services, who declined taking it, as he did not like the number, but chose another which drew a blank. It is to be hoped the holder of the ticket will at least divide his good fortune with the poor man who was its owner, and who gave up his claim to the whole upon the compulsion of the law.

An instance of Suspended Animation.—A laborer who had fallen from a scaffolding in England, was carried, apparently dead, to medical aid, and after means had been applied without success for his recovery, his friends carried the body home, with advice from the surgeon, to procure a coffin. A more skilful surgeon, however, hearing the circumstances, examined the body, and found heat enough to convince him that the vital spark was not fled. He at first opened a vein in the arm, but no blood of consequence came; on drawing the scalpel over two branches of the temporal artery, he bled profusely. Before a pound had flowed he breathed, and when two pounds were drawn, he respired almost naturally. Several hours passed between the time of his fall and that of the operation which restored a fellow being to life. It occurred to the surgeon at the time, (and which he found in another similar case,) that the blood remains in the arterial system, in a warm fluid state, after the superveins become nearly empty; and what remains in them is partly congealed from losing its free caloric; also, that the arteries retained the elasticity and vital properties a considerable time after the veins have lost their little contractile power necessary to carry on the circulation.

Gun-Barrels.—An English sportsman asserts, from his own experience, that the generally received opinion, that the greater the length of the gun-barrel, the greater the distance to which the shot will be thrown, is erroneous. He cut 4 inches from the barrel of a fowling-piece which was two feet ten inches long, by which he found the force of the discharge considerably increased. He proceeded to shorten it, inch by inch, until he had reduced it to two feet two inches, and uniformly found the power of impulsion increased.

Northampton Gazette.

Desha's Trial.—We learn from Cynthiana, that, on Saturday evening last, (being the last day of the September term of the Harrison Circuit Court,) the jury empannelled to try Isaac B. Desha, for the murder of Francis Baker, brought in a verdict of Guilty. We learn, further, that immediately on the result of the trial being made known, the counsel of Desha prayed a new trial, on the ground of informality in the indictment—the counsel of the Commonwealth having neglected to name the County in which the murder was committed. Judge Brown, it is said, without a moment's hesitation, granted the prisoner another trial. Counsel for the prosecution, William K. Wall; for the prisoner, William Brown, Thomas P. Taul, James Crawford, and Wm. Bayley.

The Hussar Frigate.—It is stated by a correspondent to the New York American, that the British frigate Hussar, which was sunk in the East River during the revolutionary war, on board of which is said to be a large amount in gold, will unquestionably be raised. A few enterprising gentlemen of N. York having employed Maj. Bayard as their engineer; they have succeeded in placing several chains under her bottom, and with the powerful aid of screws, it is their intention to raise her to the surface of the water.

Causes of Insanity.—It is stated, as the result of an examination of the cases of insanity, found in the asylums in Paris, that the proportion, which moral causes of mental alienation bear to physical, is in men from two to five, and in women from two to three, and about one tenth of the cases is attributed to hard drinking.

Beauties, whether male or female, are generally the most untractable beings in the world. The handsome fellow is so much the gentleman, and the fine woman has something so becoming, and both expect such great allowances, that there is no enduring either of them.

Singular Circumstance.—A few days ago, at Swalwell, a man set his bull dog upon an ass, when the ass immediately took the dog up in his mouth and dragged him to the river Derwent, into which he put him over his head, and lying down upon him, kept him there until he was drowned! [Let it no longer be said, "as stupid as an ass."]

In the war of 1693, between France and Holland, when the Prince of Orange and Marshall Luxembourg contended against each other, the Prince said of Luxembourg, who was deformed, "shall I never beat that hunchback?" "How does he know I am so," said Luxembourg, "he never saw my back."

The Pope's toe.—When the Pope held out his toe to be kissed by the Earl of Wiltshire, the Ambassador of King Henry VIII. a spaniel belonging to the Earl caught the Pope's toe in his teeth; the Ambassador, scorning to kiss after his dog, lost the special favor which had been proffered him.

ON DEATH.

Some have styled this certain, but at most times unwelcome visiter, the King of Terrors, when he might with less impropriety have been termed the terror of Kings. The Poet has lent his fictions, the Painter his colors, the Orator his tropes, to portray Death as the grand destroyer, the enemy, the prince of phantoms and of shades. But can he be called the destroyer, who for a perishable state, gives us that which is eternal? Can he be styled the enemy, who is the best friend only of the best, who never deserts them at their utmost need, and whose friendship proves the most valuable to those who live the longest? Can he be termed the prince of phantoms and of shades, who destroys that which is transient and temporary to establish that which alone is real and fixed? And what are the mournful escutcheons, the sable trophies, and the melancholy insignia, with which we surround him—the sepulchral gloom, the mouldering carcase and the slimy worm? These, indeed are the idle fears and empty terrors, not of the dead but of the living. The dark domain of Death we dread, indeed, to enter, but we ought rather to dread the ruggedness of some of the roads that lead to it. But if they are rugged, they are short; and it is only those that are smooth that are wearisome and long. But perhaps he summons us too soon from the feast of life. Be it so; if the exchange be not for the better, it is not his fault, but our own: or he summons us late—the call is rather a reprieve than a sentence; for who would wish to sit at the board when he can no longer partake of the banquet, or to live on to pain, when he has long been dead to pleasure? Tyrants can sentence their victims to death, but how much more dreadful would be their power could they sentence them to life? Life is the gaoler of the soul in this filthy prison, and its only deliverer is Death: what we call life is a journey to Death, and what we call Death is a passport to Life. True wisdom thanks Death for what he takes, and still more for what he brings. Let us, therefore, like sentinels, be ready because we are uncertain, and calm because we are prepared. There is nothing formidable about death but the consequences of it; and these we can ourselves regulate and control. The shortest life is long enough if it lead to a better, and the longest is too short if it do not.

OBSERVER.

FAYETTEVILLE:

THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 20, 1825.

Election Return.—The following completes the returns of the election for Members of the next General Assembly:

Ashe—Abner Smith, S. Reuben Hartly and Wm. Herbert, C.

Cotton is coming in briskly, and sells readily at from 14 to 14½. It maintains its character for excellence of quality. The purchases are made entirely with a view to the supply of the northern manufacturers, and it is said, that when that shall have been effected, (for which two or three weeks will probably suffice,) the price will fall, unless subsequent advices from Europe give a more favorable aspect to the market, which is hardly to be expected.

It affords us real pleasure to inform our country friends, that the merchants of this town pay United States Bank Notes for all produce brought to market, and that checks on the North may be purchased at ¼ per cent. premium. This state of things, together with the inducements which the uncommonly large stocks of Goods received and receiving here hold out to country Merchants, will, we confidently hope, bring many to this market who have heretofore gone to towns out of the State, to sell their produce and lay in their stocks of Goods.

Mammoth Pears.—Pears of an extraordinary size were brought to this market on Tuesday; we measured one of them, (and we understand it was not the largest,) and found its circumference to be, lengthwise, 17 inches; around, 14¾ inches.

Georgia Election.—Returns from forty-seven counties in Georgia give Gov. Troup a majority of 1375 votes. Five other counties are reported to have given Clark a majority of 508 votes, leaving Troup still 867 votes ahead. There are yet eight counties to be heard from, which will, in the aggregate, give a majority for Clark, "but in all probability not enough to elect him," says the Milledgeville Recorder. The same paper thinks Troup will be elected by a majority not exceeding 700, the whole number of votes being about 41,000.

The Savannah Republican of the 29th ult. states that a rumor was circulated in that city that the President had ordered the arrest and trial of Gen. Gaines.

The arrival of the packet ship Canada, at New York, in 43 days from Liverpool, furnishes dates to the 1st of September. The Cotton Market was rather more animated, though prices had declined a little. There is no political news of importance, except in relation to Spain, which all accounts represent to be in a deplorable situation.

In the House of Representatives of the 19th Congress, there will be eighty-four new members, and in the Senate of the United States, there will be nine new members.

In the House of Commons, of the Legislature of this State, at the next session, the number of new members will be sixty-two—and there will be twenty-eight new senators.—Raleigh Register.

Superior Court.—At the fall term of the Superior Court for Rowan county, held in this town last week, no business was done, owing to the indisposition of Judge Paxton. The court was adjourned from day to day, under the hope that the Judge would be able to attend to some of the most urgent of the great mass of business which was docketed for trial; but the hope was a fallacious one; for his honor continued so much indisposed, as to render it imprudent for him to leave his lodging for any length of time.

Sal. Car.

The Comet.—Speaking of the brilliant stranger who has paraded the Heavens in gorgeous state for the last few evenings, and in reply to a question as to its possible effect on the movements of our globe, a writer in the New York Evening Post furnishes the following, which will serve to dissipate whatever alarm the rare visitation may have caused in any quarter:

Nat. Int.

"That its movements will leave our planet entirely to its accustomed order, and all pretended wits to their undisturbed loquacity, is beyond a doubt. Its apparent motion was 13° in 24 hours, as noted in the Post on Monday, and hence it must be on another errand than that of disturbing the repose of our world. Its tail, also, is considerably oblique to the line of vision, which could not be true were the Comet approaching our earth when in opposition, as was true at the time of observation. It cannot pass between the earth and sun by any possibility, since it appears in our system first in the region of the Heavens opposite the central luminary."

The length of the tail of the Comet, which is now visible, is computed to be about five millions of miles.

DREAMS.

Oh, there is a dream of early youth,
And it never comes again;
'Tis a vision of light, of life, and truth,
That flits across the brain.
And love is the theme of that early dream,
So wild, so warm, so new,
That in all our after years, I deem,
That early dream we rue.

Oh, there is a dream of maturer years,
More turbulent by far;
'Tis a vision of blood and of woman's tears,
For the theme of that dream is war:
And we toil in the field of danger and death,
And shout in the battle array,
Till we find that fame is a bodiless breath,
That vanisheth away.

Oh, there is a dream of hoary age,
'Tis a vision of gold in store—
Of sums noted down in the figured page,
To be counted o'er and o'er:
And we fondly trust in our glittering dust,
As a refuge from grief and pain,
Till our limbs are laid on that last dark bed,
Where the wealth of the world is vain.

And is it thus from man's birth to his grave—
In the path which all are treading?
Is there nought in that long career to save
From remorse and self-upbraiding?
O yes, there's a dream so pure, so bright,
That the being to whom it is given
Hath bath'd in a sea of living light,
And the theme of that dream is Heaven.

Fayetteville Academy.

A PRINCIPAL TEACHER is wanted in this institution, well qualified to instruct youths of both sexes in all the branches of an English and Classical Education, and to prepare young men for entrance into the Junior Class of any College in the Union. His moral character, and qualifications for teaching the Greek and Latin Classics, must be undoubted.

It is the design of the Trustees to contract with a Gentleman who will take upon himself the sole management and responsibility of the School, comprehending both departments, Male and Female, supply the same with Teachers of his own choice, and furnish every other necessary; in consideration of which he will be entitled to regulate the price of tuition, and to receive all the emoluments derived from it.

This plan is recommended by the experience, that salary employments do not stimulate to that industry and zeal, which are necessary to the successful progress and reputation of a large School, and has its foundation in that principle of self love, which prompts the exertions most where interest lies, by identifying the interest of the Teacher with the character of the School, thus affording to the public the surest guaranty of having their children faithfully taught.

The Academy lot and buildings are situated in a very pleasant part of the town, on one of the principal streets, and in the neighbourhood of the Episcopal and Presbyterian Churches. The lot is large, and well shaded in the front yard, which communicates with the street over a stile: The main building and wing are three stories high, with a double Portico in front, and is surmounted with a beautiful Belfry—the length and breadth of the main building is about 65 by 45 feet, divided into large apartments, separated by large halls or passages through the centre.

They are sufficiently capacious to accommodate a School of 200 scholars and a family, and the lot is supplied from a Hydrant in the front yard with good and wholesome water.

Few prospects can be more inviting than the present, to a married gentleman with a family, qualified to assist in the School, or capable of taking boarders, (and such a person the Trustees would greatly prefer,) for it combines the advantages of two-fold profits, to be derived from teaching and boarding children from abroad. And when it is known that this Academy is situated in a town with a population of 3600 souls, and that there is no Academy within 60 miles of it, in which the higher branches of learning are taught, the striking advantages of this offer cannot fail to make a strong appeal to the interest and enterprise of the first talents in the country devoted from necessity to the vocations of literature.

The Trustees will lease the buildings, lot, &c. from the first day of January next; (when the present lease expires) for one year; after which they will extend the term to any number of years the contracting parties can agree upon.

Letters, post paid, may be addressed to the subscribers at this place.
